LIBRARY FOUNDATION LIFTING work is continuing with excavations in preparation for sinking concrete piers under the corners. The photos show workmen digging into the dry subsoil and in the picture at right, water from an underground spring has filled the excavation under the northwest corner. Shifting of the soil under the foundation has caused all four corners of the building to drop several inches, cracking some of the walls.

Cameron has another champion baseball team, the Maroons, who won fourth in the Texas Pony League playoffs at Sweetwater last week.

They took their second loss of the year, 3-2, to the host town's club, which went on to win the state tournament. Along the way, the Maroons defeated Port Lavaca, 6-0, and Kermit 5-4, after an earlier loss before the second loss to Sweetwater. The Maroons ended the season with an enviable 17-2 record against the best in Texas among 13-15 year-olds.

These youngsters, manager Peanut Barron and coach Bill Hornung deserve our acclaim for bringing home a high ranking in Texas competition. Eight teams entered the final round.

It is the second baseball club in two years to win state honors. The Little League Cardinals last summer finished fourth in state competition out of all Texas Little League teams, which must total in the thousands.

For these two clubs to come out of one summer baseball program in consecutive seasons for fourth place is a splendid commentary on the calibre of baseball being played in Cameron throughout the system.

So the Maroons continue a tradition of fine baseball that must go back into early years of this century and most likely will continue for years to come.

This kind of team and these young men will fare well in future athletics and whatever they undertake. Cameron is fortunate men will take time to help boys become champions.

President Nixon turned back the currents of inflation in his announcement of price-wage-rent freezes for the next 90 days. He is receiving bi-partisan support for this apparent reversal of fiscal policy.

He also imposed a 10 percent duty on about half of foreign imports and lifted federal excise taxes on automobiles, and called for a 5 percent reduction in federal payroll.

This combination will have healthy repercussions on the economy. Wall Street had almost a record number of stocks sold Monday.

As well, the dollar is being allowed to seek its own level on the world market, which has to do with money markets overseas and no particular effect at home.

A 90-day moratorium should alleviate a continuing necessity to change prices upward, and give us all a chance to examine the value of topping pecuniary spiral never quite within reach.

Noon Lions Hear Rep. Dan Kubiak

State Rep. Dan Kubiak was guest speaker at the Cameron Noon Lions meeting Monday and said "Laws are like sausage -- you wouldn't like either one if you saw them being made."

Kubiak, who said he would have political announcement within five months, told local Lions he had opposed what he termed "pork barrel" spending in the $270 million budget presented to the 62nd Legislature.

He noted a $1 million appropriation for the LBJ Park and $1 million for a museum at Clarendon.

Dr. John Martin was named Lion of the Year by the local club.

New Traffic Laws Effective August 29

Cameron police along with other law enforcement agencies have been schooled on the new traffic laws which go into effect August 29.

The laws are provisions of Senate Bill 183, passed last spring by the 62nd Legislature. They apply to motorists and to operation of autos, bicycles, motorcycles and other vehicles.

Cameron and Rosebud police officers attended a school here last week on the new laws, taught by officers of the Department of Public Safety and the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Officer Education and Standards.

Requirements of the new laws include:

*Motorists must stop before passing stopped school buses within city limits as well as without, while buses are taking on or discharging passengers.

*No person driving a motor vehicle may allow it to stand unattended without stopping the engine, locking the ignition and effectively setting the brake, and turning the front wheels to the curb or side of the highway.

*Motorists may not display "any sign, poster or non-transparent material" on front, side or rear auto windows.

*No television equipment may be installed and "so located that the viewer or screen is visible from the drivers seat."

*It is unlawful for motorists to back up on the shoulder of a highway "unless such movement can be made with safety and without interfering with other traffic."

*Motorists are not to open doors of vehicles on the side available to moving traffic.

*Motorists must stop immediately before driving onto a sidewalk and yield the right-of-way to pedestrians. The provision applies to both business and residential driveways.

*No person shall occupy a house trailer while it is being moved upon a public highway.

*Motorists who fail to stop at the demand of a uniformed police officer may be charged with a misdemeanor offense. The violation carries a penalty of not less than 30 days nor more than six months or a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $500, or both.

*Motorists may not cut across private property, parking lots, business entranceways or sidewalks for purpose of making either a right or left turn from one street or highway to another street or highway.

*Motorcyclists and bicyclists no longer may carry passengers unless proper seats for them are provided.

*Bicycle drivers are now subject to all rules and regulations governing motor vehicles -- bicycles must be ridden on the right side of the street, with all proper turn signals given.

Parent's Consent Waived For Minor Blood Donors

Parent's consent will no longer be required for blood donors between the ages of 18 and 21, it was announced this week.

The announcement came from William M. Probes, administrator of the Central Texas Red Cross Blood Center at Waco.

The next visit to Cameron of the bloodmobile will be Monday, August 30, from 1 to 7 p.m. at Methodist Fellowship Hall.

Council Will Study Complete Master Plan

Representatives from South/West Planning Associates of Bryan presented the final reports and a summary of the city's 20-year plan to the Mayor and city councilmen Tuesday evening.

The reports will be studied by councilmen for approval at a later meeting. The plan is in the process of being approved at Austin also.

In other business, E. A. Bigbee and Charles Manning appeared before the council to ask for widening of N. Central Street in the area of the old Auditorium Hotel and the Green building on the corner.

The street will be paved as part of the downtown urban renewal project, Bigbee noted, and said the present sidewalks are wide enough to take footage from them to make the street wider.

Angle parking would be possible on a wider street and businesses relocating in the area need more customer parking space, the men said.

The council moved to request the Urban Renewal Agency to follow suggestions presented.

Council also discussed the proposed budget for the coming fiscal year. Final budget will be adopted before October 1.

Other discussions centered on trash pickup for several businesses in the city and the estimated cost of a new sewer line on Colfax St.

The council also voted to re-appoint B. F. Grimes to the Cameron Housing Authority.

BB Guns Bring Police Warning; Breakin Reported

Cameron Police Chief Felipe Martinez today warned parents of children with BB guns that there is a city ordinance against firing the guns within the city limits.

Chief Martinez said the department has had several complaints about damage done by the BB guns.

Children found firing BB guns will be taken to their parents, the chief said, and if that doesn't stop it, a complaint will be filed against the parents.

In other police news, Chief Martinez said that Sgt. Truman White, Cameron police officer, had resigned from the force to join the Rockdale police as assistant police chief.

Another burglary was reported this week. The back door of "Poppa John's" on West Batte Street was forced open and $3 or $4 worth of change was taken, along with an undertermined amount of beer.

Police are investigating the burglary.

LADIS MAREK SR.

Reception Set For Bank Retiree

Ladis Marek Sr., assistant vice president of the Citizens National Bank, Cameron, will retire on September 6, it was announced this week.

A reception honoring Mr. Marek will be held in the Directors Room of the bank from 2 to 6 p.m. Friday, August 20, his last day of work at the bank.

Mr. Marek has been an employee of the bank since 1928 and completes over 43 years of service with the bank. He was employed by Citizens National on July 31, 1928, beginning duties in the bookkeeping department. He has progressed through all departments of the bank over the years.

He was born in the Meeks community, attended school there and at Kansas City, Mo. Before joining the bank staff he was co-owner of a general merchandise store in Meeks.

He moved to Cameron in 1927 and on June 5, 1928 he married Miss Viola Marek. They have one son, Ladis Marek Jr. who is cashier and auditor of the Citizens National Bank. The Mareks are members of the First Presbyterian Church Cameron.

Glider Champion Recalls Cameron Boyhood

Lee Polanski, whose interest in model airplanes started on the R. L. Batte field more than 20 years ago was back this week with an international competition behind him and a third place team trophy from the Olympics of the model plane world.

Polansky was enroute to his home in California after competing in the Federation Aeronautic International Free Flight World Championships held July 1 - 4 in Goteborg, Sweden. His team placed third, behind Austria and Russia, with only a 42 second time difference between the first and third place teams.

Polansky said there have been many planes and regional and national competitions between his first model plane built as a youngster in Cameron and his selection for the USA Championship team.

"My first introduction to model planes was when I watched Bill Peck and Eugene Salach flying their models on the old Batte field," Polansky said this week. "Later James Edward Michalka let me watch him make models and later he and Eugene Salach taught me to put the planes together and fly them."

By the time Polansky was in high school he was considered a local "expert" with model planes and attended his first National Academy of Model Aeronautics meet which was held that year in Dallas. He has now flown planes in 14 national meets, from California to Pennsylvania, and scores of regional meets. One of his motor powered models holds a national record.

But the soaring glider is his real interest and his planes, with wing span of up to almost 8 feet, bear little resemblance to the balsa wood models flown at Batte Field. Polansky carried five of the gliders with him, all similar in design but with modifications adapted for weather conditions.

The body structure is of plywood with fiber glass 'boom'. Wings and tail are balsa wood ribs covered with Japanese tissue paper coated with a special lacquer. Special timing mechanisms put the glider into a circle formation, times the flight and sets the tail to bring the plane to the ground.

A prototype of the current planes was made in 1963 with the design help of Tom Hutchinson, an aeronatuical engineer graduate of Texas A&M. Latest modifications were suggested by a Canadian model plane enthusiast who had tested gliders in a wind tunnel for weather conditions similar to those in Sweden.

"His suggestions really made a difference at the International meet," Polansky said. "I maxed the first and last rounds when weather conditions were very bad."

Watching a glider demonstration proves that the aeromodelers handling ability is as important as the plane's design. Releasing the towline a second early or misjuding winds or thermal currents can send a plane crashing into a tree or to the ground. Polansky explained that the thermals (pressure of heat from the ground) hold the glider in the air. "This varies according to section of the country and time of day, so in free flight meets we have timed runs for each entry at different hours of the day."

Polansky said the California climate was "just about perfect for model planes." While teaching in Bryan he made numerous contacts with model plane enthusiasts from California and the flying conditions there were a determining factor in his move to the west coast. He presently works in the cirriculum department of the Arcadia, California schools and his wife is an elementary school teacher.

Polansky started competition for the USA Championship team two years ago. Regional eliminations lowered the field of competitors from a starting 2,000 to 33 contestants who met in Albequerque for a final round of competition that decided the three member team.

The team, joined by two other US teams (Wakefield and Power teams) and manager, left New Jersey June 26. They landed in Frankfurt, Germany and then traveled by microbuses through Germany, Denmark and Sweden to Goteberg. Following were two days of testing and retrimming the model planes and meeting the 300 other competitors who had come from 37 countries. Meets were held July 2, 3 and 4 and a banquet concluded the international event.

Polansky said language was no difficulty. "Events were announced in English, Swedish and German and we decided that English must be the international language now because the banquet presentations were all in English."

Competition for the 1973 meet has already begun in the United States, but the 1971 team has a reserve seat for the final elimination. "I'll be trying for a place on that team," Polansky said.

FREE FLIGHT CHAMPION - Lee Polansky and wife Susan with glider that helped the USA championship team place third in international competition at Goteberg, Sweden, last month. Mrs. Polansky teams up with her husband in U. S. meets as his helper on 'take-off's' and 'recovery.'

Big Game, Big Eye....

School is not far off when football begins, practice that is.

Cameron plays its first game against Taylor September 10.

The annual Texas football machine is beginning to tool up in pre-season pro exhibition games, the final holdouts for last season's stars, the last-minute change of personnel from one club to another, the suiting out of college and high school clubs all over the giant Texas football gridiron.

Somebody said recently Texas has more high school football teams than any state in the country, more than 1,000, from B to AAAA, and therefore more stadii, fans, game trips, bands, cheerleaders, yardmarkers and any other measure of the most of anything.

It is Texas' fascination with football's crunch and grind and color. It is getting big enough to cause wonder even among size-conscious Texans.

Larger still are Texans' eyeballs, as they already begin to see one or two exhibition games on television prior to the Friday night high school game, the Saturday afternoon college game of the week, the Sunday morning reruns, the Sunday afternoon-evening pro games from one coast to another,

Cameron is in tune with these times, its interest in football, as well as other sports, part of this whole extravanganza.

It's a peaceable way of working off aggressions, but woe be to the loser when the Monday morning quarterbacks get hold of him.

Thus, The Dairymobile...

Milam County is primarily a beef county in the grazing industry, though we are proud of the dairy operations established here.

But farmers throughout the area might join in a moment of comic relief suggested by a Minnesota county agent.

Says a Mr. Dick Walter, Goodhue County, Minn., county agent:

When farmers sell their cows, they ought to learn from the auto makers, to wit:

"Start out with a price of $200 for the basic cow, add $45 for a two-tone exterior, $75 for the extra stomach, $60 for the product storage compartment, $40 for the dispensing device with four spigots at $10 each, $125 for "genuine cowhide" upholstery, $15 for dual horns and $35 for the automatic fly swatter, thus bringing the price to $595."

Thus, the Dairymobile.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

BEANS AND THE INVISIBLE PORK

REP. B.S. ROSENTHAL (N.Y.) ". . .As we public officials are aware, the term "pork barrel" usually refers to the giving away of something for nothing. However, as far as the subject of pork and beans is concerned, the opposite would seem to be the case. It appears as though the manufacturers of this product have, for a long time, been giving nothing for something.

"An article in the WASHINGTON POST describes the results of a study on canned pork and beans undertaken by Bess Myerson Grant, New York City's Commissioner of Consumer Affairs. I am entering the article in the Record." (The condensed article follows:)

EATING LOW ON THE HOG
(By Carole Shifrin)

First the hot dog came under attack for having too much fat and not enough meat. Then we were told Wonder Bread did not build strong bodies 12 ways.

Now, another American institution--pork and beans--is under fire.

New York City's consumer affairs commissioner, Bess Myerson, yesterday charged that an analysis by her department of 10 brands of canned pork and beans showed half of them contained only 1 percent or less of pork. None of the cans tested had more than 7 percent pork, and one brand, "Campbell's Home Style Pork and Beans" contained no pork at all, she said.

A spokesman for Campbell's however, insisted that its "home style" Pork and Beans had about 2 percent pork in it. "It does have ground pork," he said. "You can't see it with the naked eye."

He said there was "no attempt on anyone's part to deceive" the consumer. The Food and Drug Administration had not set up standards for pork and beans, he said and has told industry that it has "for years been recognized by consumers generally that the designation pork and beans is a common name for an item which "contains very little pork." (Five of the other brands analyzed were:)

A & P (Sultana) Pork and Beans in tomato sauce -- .94 percent pork.

B & M Brick Oven Baked Beans made with small pea beans -- 7 percent.

Co-Op Beans, water, pork and tomato sauce -- with a label reading beans -- with just the right amount of pork -- .75 percent pork.

Heinz Company Pork "n" Beans in tomato sauce -- 4 percent pork.

Stokely-Van Camp's Pork & Beans Prepared with tomato sauce -- labeled the "Original pork and beans with tomato sauce -- .75 percent pork.

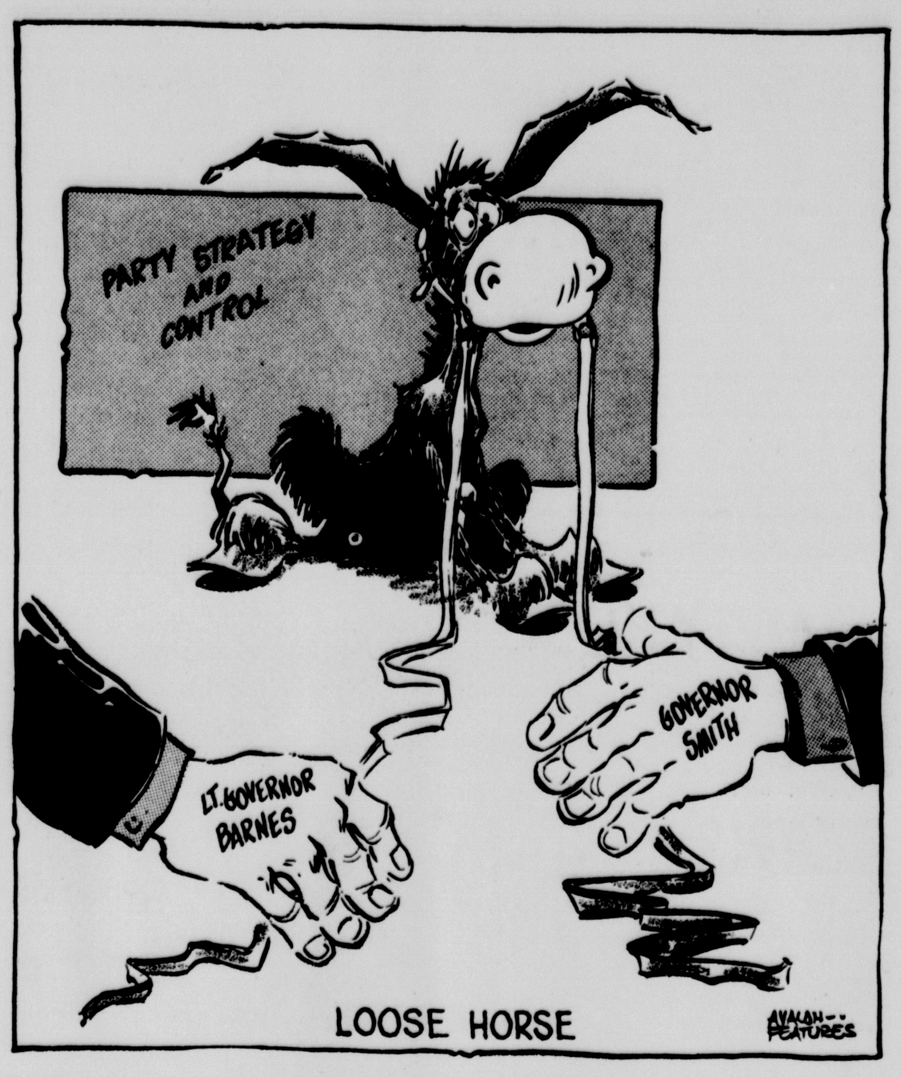
A GRASSROOTS COMMENT

What next? They are sure to discover that Spanish onions are not Spanish, that French Dressing is not French, and Shoestring potatoes contain no shoestrings, also, that Cottage cheese was not processed in a cottage.

We might learn that the "Pop" in some popcorn is below standard.--J.C.

PLENTIFUL FOODS

Wheat products are featured on the USDA's August Plentiful Foods list, and the hot August days offer good opportunities to use them in sandwiches. Other plentiful foods include peanuts and peanut products, summer vegetables -- especially sweet corn, tomatoes, celery and carrots -- broiler-fryers, cranberry juice and sauce, and fluid milk.



Dateline Austin...

Redistricting Board To Meet In Austin August 24

Legislative Redistricting Board will meet here August 24 to begin consideration of state senatorial reapportionment.

Shortly after the Board announced its meeting date, Gov. Preston Smith issued a sharply worded statement calling on the Board to forget "political considerations" and start work on a House of Representative redistricting bill also.

Smith noted the fact that Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin's appealing a district court decision invalidating the 1971 legislative act which attempted to reapportion the House does not preclude the Board from preparing for any eventuality.

Supreme Court of Texas, Governor noted, may uphold or over-turn the district court's August 2 decision that the Legislature illegally divided more than 20 counties. In either case, he said, the Board should be prepared with a House as well as a Senate reapportionment plan to avoid the need for a "million dollar" special session of the Legislature.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, a member of the Legislative Redistricting Board, expressed surprise at Smith's blast. He said the Board has made no decision not to consider House redistricting and, indeed, has not even discussed the issue.

Board has just 60 days to draw the reapportionment after its initial meeting which means its lifespan expires in late October.

State Supreme Court Chief Justice Robert W. Calvert said the Court will meet within 48 hours after receiving a request for an appeal hearing and can reach a decision in 10 days or less.

Attorney General Martin said a transcript of the lower court proceedings is being speeded to completion and can be placed before the Supreme Court within another week.

AUTO INSURANCE RATE

Governor last week called on the State Board of Insurance to permit no increases in auto coverage rates this year.

He summoned three members of that agency to his office to hear his proposal.

Board is due to meet this month to review requests of insurance companies for increases totalling almost 10 per cent on all types of auto insurance. Board staff members have proposed a modest 2.8 per cent average hike effective September 1.

Governor asked the Board to begin study immediately of no-fault insurance plans with a view toward adopting one for Texas. He said Massachusetts achieved a substantial reduction in auto insurance rates under its no-fault concept.

Smith also urged the Board to study the feasibility of establishing a flexible and competitive insurance rating system in an effort to reduce rates.

"We are confident that a suitable alternative to the ever-rising rates could be found -- if the insurance industry and the agencies of state government wish to find them," said Smith.

WATER BONDS SOLD

A Chicago firm was low bidder on a $25 million Texas Water Development Bond issue to help build or improve sewage treatment facilities.

Issue was the first step in a $100 million program authorized by voters May 18 for loans to cities, towns, river authorities and water districts. State loans make political subdivisions eligible for increased grants from federal government for water quality improvement.

Board said it expects 40 or 50 applications for assistance by October 1. It will act on the first ones at its meeting here September 16-17.

Local units can borrow 25 per cent of cost of a sewage treatment project from the state. Federal government will provide 50 to 55 per cent of the cost where a state program exists.

Halsey, Stuart and Co. Inc. and Associates bid effective interest rate of 4.9533 per cent for the issue.

AG OPINIONS

Attorney General Martin said in a recent opinion that Texas cities and counties may charge beverage cartage permit holders and local distributor permit holders additional liquor fees.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded:

* Justices of Peace must take a 40-hour course of instruction determined by state-supported accredited institutions of higher learning in performance of their duties unless they are licensed attorneys.

* State departments may pay premiums on group insurance policies for regular, part-time and temporary seasonal employees.

* Non-elective state officers or appointees who accept other non-conflicting state positions of honor, trust or profit must receive clearance of their agency heads.

* Bell county court at law has jurisdiction in eminent domain and probate matters, and vacancy in judgeship would not change jurisdiction.

* A sheriff has no authority to release prisoners in his custody prior to expiration of sentences imposed and may be compelled to re-arrest prematurely-released prisoners.

* Professional services procurement act of 1971 is not applicable to landscape architects licensed by Board of Landscape Architects.

18-20 YEAR OLD VOTE

Voter registration has, in effect, been reopened for newly-enfranchised 18-20-year olds to permit them to sign up at any time prior to March 1, 1972, close of the voting year.

County registrars have been instructed to accept applications from 17, 18, 19 and 20-year olds, with registration certificates to be effective for any election held 30 days or more afterward. Young voters who failed to register during the registration period which ended February 28 may now present their applications to tax assesor-collector either in person or by mail.

They must sign up again October 1 or thereafter to remain eligible to vote in elections beyond March 1, 1972.

Hill-Burton 25 Years Old

As the nation continues to debate the pros and cons of proposed health delivery systems, one health care effort which has withstood the test of time prepares to observe its 25th anniversary.

For the past quarter century, the phrase "Hill-Burton" has been part of the language of the hospital world and the public-at-large.

"In Texas, Hill-Burton has meant the construction of over $739 million in hospitals and other health care facilities since 1946," said Dr. James E. Peavy, Texas Commissioner of Health.

Many of these facilities would probably not have been constructed without the aid provided by the Hill-Burton program. The joint federal-state program has aided 539 projects in Texas. It provided 31,493 inpatient beds in hospitals and nursing homes and added 113 other types of health facilities.

The Hill-Burton Program was initiated when President Truman signed the Hospital Survey and Construction Act on August 13, 1946. The legislation authorized federal grants to assist states and communities in constructing needed hospitals and public health centers to furnish adequate care to all their people.

On August 13 of this year, the Hill-Burton Program was a quarter-century old. Health officials in Texas and across the nation plan to commemorate the silver anniversary of this program.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editar:

I've tried everything from reading month-old newspapers to watching re-runs on television to figure out how we can have two Chinas in the United Nations, which shouldn't be too hard in view of the fact we've got two Dakotas and two Virginias in the United States, not to mention one Texas, but still I can't get my mind off that moon buggy. I mean, its price. Eight million dollars.

As I understand it, the buggy was powered by four quarter-horse electric motors about the size of the one in your washing machine, one on each wheel, had special wire tires, seat belts, a bunch of batteries, no top, and a high-powered television camera. It didn't have a steering wheel, just a stick that controlled the four quarter-horse motors.

While my knowledge of auto manufacturing is about as close to zero as you can get, although I know the companies do have one engineer whose main job is to design a hood release latch so it'll never by in the same place one model to the next, I have decided that the hardest thing about building an 8-million-dollar moon car is making it cost 8 million dollars.

Fifty thousand dollars. . .Maybe, considering inflation and all, a hundred thousand dollars, but 8 million dollars? For four electric motors, wire wheels, no top and a television camera?

How many sleepless nights did the designers and engineers have to spend to get that much money into one small car? They're bound to have had the help of four Congressional Committees and eighten State Legislatures, with possibly a dozen or so big city mayors thrown in and no doubt a few of the engineers who design highway cloverleaf interchanges, working I guess on double-time, triple-time, quadruple-time. . .I could go on but I don't know what the word for the next mutiple is.

Anyway, making the car cost 8 million dollars is nearabout as great a scientific feat as hauling it to the moon. That price of course was F.O.B. the launch pad. When you figure in the transportation charges thereafter. . . hold on to your hat and hang on.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Barbs From the Bench

On trial for burglary, the defendant was trying to explain why he had been observed near the scene of the crime at three o'clock in the morning. But the judge was skeptical.

"Honest people," he said caustically, "are in bed at three o'clock in the morning."

Was the judge's remark prejudicial? Indeed it was, ruled an appellate court, granting the defendant a new trial. The court said the judge had no right, even by wisecrack, to blacken the defendant's reputation.

The appellate court was concerned not about the feelings of the defendant but about the minds of the jurors.

"The jury," said one expert, "can be easily influenced by the slightest suggestion from the (trial judge), whether it be a nod of the head, a smile, a frown, or a spoken word. It is imperative that (he) conduct himself with utmost caution in order that the unusual power he possesses shall not be abused."

Unfortunately, a new trial is costly in both time and money. Accordingly, even if a judge has said something to disparage the defendant, the appellate court will usually overlook it if there seems to be no great harm done. Often a judge who realizes his mistake can "take the sting out" of what he said by instructing the jury to ignore it.

Nor is a judge expected to be superhuman. In the heat of a trial, he may understandably show flashes of nonjudicial emotion.

In one case, while the judge was talking with a lawyer, the defendant kept interrupting. Finally the judge burst out:

"Please keep quiet. I don't like it. You are here to answer questions. If there is any more of that kind of talk, you will be in jail for contempt of court."

But this time, an appellate court found no grounds for a new trial. The court said that, even though the judge should not have lost his temper, he could be excused for a natural reaction to a stressful situation.

The United States Supreme Court once summarized the matter as follows:

"A defendant is entitled to a fair trial but not a perfect one."

County Agent's Notes

Army Worms Early

By J. D. Moore

Milam County Agent

Army worms are building up heavy infestations in bermuda grass lawns as well as in pastures and it is expected that volunteer oats will be damaged extensively by the invasion of army worms.

For some reason the army worms do not feed as much on St. Augustine grass as they do in bermuda grass.

The worms are heavy feeders, causing damage within a few days, and pastures and lawns are often heavily damaged before the owner is aware of their presence. The feed mostly at night returning to the ground during the day.

The armyworms are easy to control while they are small, but the larger worms require a heavier dosage of insecticides.

Recommended chemicals for armyworm control are Sevin, Toxaphene or methyl parathion. An application of one pound per acre of Sevin is more commonly used because it has no grazing restrictions.

At least two more infestations can be expected this fall, since the armyworms arrived early.

PLANT DISEASE MEETING

Dr. Jerral Johnson, Plant Pathologist from A&M will be in the County Agents Office at 2 p.m. the afternoon of August 26, to discuss plant disease problems county producers may have.

Urban families with grass, shade tree or shrubbery problems are urged to collect a sample of their plant problems and bring them to the meeting.

A number of shade trees and pecan trees are showing leaf problems this summer.

In small plants, be sure to include the root system with the plants for diagnosis. The public is urged to attend this meeting

Producers Winning Battle Against Hog Cholera

Hog producers and animal health officials in Texas and the rest of the United States are apparently winning the last battle in a 140-year-old war against one of the most costly and sometimes most fatal of all animal diseases -- hog cholera.

For many years, hog producers had learned to live with the disease and to tolerate it as best they could.

In recent years the disease has been robbing U. S. producers of about $50 million per year, and it was cutting a million dollar notch in the profits of Texas hog raisers. This meant that it was costing producers about 50 cents per market hog to live with hog cholera.

When the USDA began its eradication program in 1962, the goal of a cholera free U. S. by the end of 1972 might have seemed like an impossible objective to many people. However, as the number of cases continues to drop off, many officials agree that Texas and the rest of the country could well be free of hog cholera by the target date.

A few months ago the picture did not look so promising. In fact at the beginning of the year, a new appraisal of all states revealed that Texas had more hog cholera than any other state, and USDA officials said the state was lagging about two years behind the rest of the nation in its eradication program.

In 1970 Texas had 87 cases reported. A case represents one infected herd. The year before that, over 200 cases were confirmed.

When the less-than-successful efforts to control the disease became evident, neighboring states began to place embargos on Texas hogs, posing an especially serious problem for the purebred hog breeder.

Legislation To Help Control Of Animal Diseases

WASHINGTON

A House Agriculture Subcommittee, headed by Rep. Graham Purcell (D-Tex.), approved legislation authorizing the Secretary of Agriculture to cooperate with the governments of all other nations in the Western Hemisphere in the eradication and control of communicable diseases of animals where he deems such action necessary to protect the livestock and related industries in this country.

The legislation was approved by Purcell's Livestock and Grains Subcommittee after it had heard testimony from officials of the Agriculture Department.

In view of the fact that it incorporated points included in several measures under consideration, a so-called "clean" bill will be introduced jointly by several members of the Subcommittee and then sent to the full Committee.

Congressman Purcell said the Subcommittee action came after discussion revealing that existing law limits the Secretary of Agriculture to working only with Mexico in regard to foot and mouth disease, rinderpest and screwworm, and only with Central America in regard to foot and mouth disease and rinderpest.

The bills under study when the Subcommittee session began would have continued to limit the cooperative activities of the Secretary of Agriculture in Mexico and Central America. As amended before final approval, the legislation was broadened to cover all Hemisphere nations and to include poultry as well as livestock diseases.

Consideration of the legislation follows on the heels of a public hearing called by Purcell to investigate the Agriculture Department's handling of the vaccination program in connection with the Venequelan Equine Encephalomyelitis (VEE) epidemic in Texas.

INTERNAL PARASITES

Internal parasites can drain away profits from a beef herd and often without visible symptoms. With current conditions generally on the unfavorable side due to the lack of rainfall, beef producers should check their animals even closer for internal parasite troubles, remind beef cattle specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Officials Urge Maximum Cotton Production In Texas

COLLEGE STATION

Cotton sales during the past five years have exceeded cotton production and the situation has reduced carryover stocks of some lint qualities to dangerously low levels, says Dr. John E. Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

To avoid the possibility of a serious shortage of cotton and to strengthen the future market position of cotton, an educational program - "Better Cotton Yields for Profits and Markets" - was recently started by the Extension Service and the National Cotton Council.

To launch the program in Texas and to acquaint industry leaders with its goals, meetings were held during July in Lubbock, Dallas, Waco, and Harlingen. Attendance at these meetings included producers, ginners, editors, bankers, agribusiness, farm organization representatives, and county agricultural leaders.

About 375 industry leaders attended the meeting which were sponsored by the state co-chairman Donnell Echols, president of the Plains Cotton Producers Association, and Hutchison.

Improved harvesting efficiency was one of the practices mentioned in these meetings that offers good potential for increased cotton yields in 1971. Surveys conducted by the Statistical Research Service have shown that in the fourteen-state cotton belt the average field loss is 11 percent of the total yield.

In Texas, these surveys showed an average nine percent loss. Reducing losses to four percent in spindle-picking operations and two percent in mechanical cotton stripping operations are possible with near ideal field conditions, skilled operators, and properly-adjusted machines, Hutchison says.

So, in Texas where 15 percent of the crop is spindle-picked and 85 percent is stripped, the theoretical field loss should average two and on-half percent.

"This level of efficiency will likely never be achieved due to weather and other uncontrollable conditions associated with cotton production," he adds, "we believe, however, that an obtainable goal is to improve harvesting efficiency by two percent."

"On last year's crop this would have meant better than an $8 million increase in the value of the lint and seed from upland and American-Egyptian cotton," Hutchison continued.

Under the Agricultural Act of 1970, actual yield for 1971 will be used in computing the payment base for 1972 and '73. This is an additional incentive for individual producers to do a better job on all production practices, particularly harvesting efficiency.

Secure cotton markets require a dependable source of raw materials for spinners. Thus, keeping a complete inventory of the various lint qualities in sufficient supply is a necessary part of a stable cotton industry. Efforts by producers to increase yield will therefore add to the stability of the cotton industry of the future, the Director asserts.

The Extension Service is cooperating with producer organizations, mass media, lending agencies, the National Cotton Committee and all others concerned with the industry to emphasize the need for better cotton yields in 1971. This effort will be supported by news releases, radio tapes, field demonstrations, county meetings for producers, area meetings for ginners and special publications that are available from County Agricultural Agent offices.

"This effort should make cotton's future brighter in Texas," Hutchison concluded.

4-H CLUB ACTIVITIES

DISTRICT HORSESHOW

The District 8 4-h Horse Show has been set for Saturday, August 21 at the new Horse Barn located at the Heart of Texas Fairgrounds at Waco.

This years show date had to be postponed because of the outbreak of the VEE. The show will start at 9 a.m. and will feature classes in Western Pleasure, Reining, Pole bending, Barrel racing, drill teams and others. Trophies will be awarded to first place winners in most divisions.

Because of the time change in the show, additional entries will be accepted in the district office until August 17. As yet, Martha Lynn McDermott of Cameron will be the only one from Milam County attending.

TEXAS JERSEY DAY

The South Central Texas Jersey District will have a Jersey show and judging contest August 18 in Brenham. The judging team from Milam County will be competing in this contest.

This will be the first contest since the State 4-H Roundup. The team was high team in Jerseys at State and hopes are that they will do well at this contest. The top three teams will be presented trophies and the top three individuals. Also there will be discussions on fitting and showing dairy animals.

BASTROP DAIRY DAY

There will be a dairy day classification at Bastrop on August 20 at 7 p.m. The show will be a classification show and will feature pointers on showing and fitting animals. Linda Lemon and Donald Fleming of Countywide 4-H Club are planning to attend.

ASCS News

By Douglas Buck

Beekeepers who want to file for indemnity payments for bee losses from pesticide use may now obtain forms at the Milam County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) office.

Because the beekeeper indemnity payment program is new, no estimate can yet be made on the number of claims to be filed or beekeepers' estimates of losses.

The indemnity payment program for beekeepers is retroactive to January 1, 1967, and, under the Agricultural Act of 1970, will continue through December 31, 1973. To be eligible for payments, beekeepers must file applications with their ASC County Committee and must prove loss of or damage to bee colonies because of pesticides.

A beekeeper filing for payment must satisfy the following requirements in written form: Show that his own pesticide application, if any, in no way contributed to his bee losses, that he took reasonable care to protect his bees and after exposure took reasonable action to reduce losses if he had prior notice of pesticide use in the vicinity of his colonies, and that the loss of bees was due entirely to the use of pesticides.

A beekeeper coming in to the County ASCS Office to file should as for either the 'short form' ask for either the 'short form' of the 'long form'. If he has kept meticulous records that show precisely his income losses and when and where they occurred, he may want to use the long form on which he can show exact amount of his losses, based on cost of replacement bees, loss of honey and beeswax sales, pollination fees, and queen and packaged bee sales.

For beekeepers who do not have records that detailed that far back, there is a short form available, which shows colony loss.

If a beekeeper files on the short form, the Milam County ASC Committee will determine net loss on the following rates: $20 for each bee colony destroyed, $15 for each colony severely damaged, $5 for each colony moderately damaged, $7.50 for each queen nuclueus destroyed, and $5 for each queen nucleus severely damaged.

On either form, the beekeeper will specify colonies in his apiary before loss because of pesticides, colonies free of damage, destroyed, severly damaged, and moderately damaged, queen nuclei destroyed and severely damaged, and total loss.

The beekeeper will be expected to provide evidence of his bee losses from pesticides. Retroactively, such evidence may include official reports of losses filed with local or State autorities, business records kept at the time of loss, written statements by disinterested persons with personal knowledge of the losses, photographs authenticated as to date, location, and accuracy, reports of apiary inspectors and tax returns.

Current losses must include a written statement by a disinterested person and full information regarding the loss, including cause, extent, date, and location.

A beekeeper will also submit evidence that his loss occurred as a direct result of the use of pesticides near his apiary. Such evidence may include reports of chemical tests performed on dead bees; records, signed statements or official reports of pesticide applicators and vendors employed within forage range of the bees; and governmental agencies or universities possessing verified information on the application of pesticides in the vicinity.

Any beekeeper wanting to know full details about the indemnity payment program for pesticide losses should get in touch with his County ASCS Office. He may come in to the office, phone, or write, and we will be glad to give him all the information we have and help him understand the forms and the proof of loss he will need.

Agriculture Has Influence On Texas Economy

While all phases of Texas agriculture added nearly $10 billion to the state's economy in 1970, about 80 percent of this total was generated from the manufacture and supplying of tools for production and the processing and distribution of agricultural commodities.

The remaining $2 billion consisted of values added in farming and ranching and government payments to agriculture. Cash receipts from farm marketing during 1070 were $3.1 billion compared to $3.0 billion in 1969, says Charles K. Baker, Extension marketing specialist. Livestock and livestock products sales totaled $1.95 billion while crop receipts were $1.9 billion in 1970.

Baker adds that the total value of farm assets in Texas is about $29 billion including $27 billion for physical assets and $2 billion in financial assets. Real estate taxes paid by Texas farmers were just over $119 million in 1970 compared to a $70.6 million level the year before.

Agribusiness provides employment for 35-40 percent of the Texas labor force. Farm and ranch operators or members of their families working on farms numbered 190,000. Hired workers on farms and ranches numbered 92,000 and were paid $250 million in 1970. An additional 1.3 million workers were engaged in off-farm agribusiness employment.

The off-farm percentage has increased as Texas farms have enlarged, commercialized, specialized and mechanized. Baker notes that the rural population has dropped to approximately 2.3 million out of a total of more than 11 million, but many who live in cities own farms for revenue, recreation or other purposes.

Musial, Burdette To Play In Astros Oldtimers Game

Stan Musial and Lou Burdette, two stars of the 1950's and early 1960's, will help make this year's annual Astro Oldtimer's game one of the best ever in the Astrodome.

The game will be played before the Astros and Pittsburgh Pirates meet at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, August 28. Houston will play the Bucs three games beginning August 27 and ending August 29. St. Louis will be the first team in during the home stand. The Cards come in August 23-25. Los Angeles will be in August 30 - September 2.

Burdette and Musial both match this year's Oldtimer's Game theme -- No-Hit Pitchers against All-Time Sluggers.

Burdette hurled a no-hit game August 18, 1960 for the Braves. Musial was one of the game's greatest hitters. He was the National League batting champ seven times with the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Oldtimer's game is expected to draw an enormous amount of interest due to the quality of former greats who will participate.

Stan the Man played for 22 years with the Cards. He played the outfield and first base.

Musial is ranked 10th or above in eight all-time offensive categories. He is ranked second in games played, at bats, hits and doubles. He is third in all-time runs scored and runs batted in.

The legendary Cardinal had his best offensive season in 1948 when he led the league in doubles (46), triples (18), hits (230) runs scored (135), runs batted in (131) and batting average (.376).

Burdette was a 20-game winner twice during his career which lasted in the major 18 years. Burdette hit the 20 mark in 1958 and again in '59.

His no-hitter was against Philadelphia and Burdette recalls the final out.

"The last batter was Bobby Gene Smith. He hit a fly ball to Aaron (Hank) in right field and it was all over," said Burdette.

"I had come close several times before, but this time I made it," recalls Burdetee.

In the 1957 World Series Burdette won three games in leading the Braves to the championship over the Yankees. He posted an 0.67 earned run average during the series and pitched two shutouts.

Tickets to the game are available at the Astrodome, Foley's five stores in Houston and Pasadena and at Houston Citizens Bank and Trust. They may be ordered by mail by sending check or moneyorde to: Astros Tickets, Box 1691, Houston, Texas 77001. Box seats are $4, reserved seats $3. A 25-cent handling charge should be added to all mail orders.

WW II ARMS FOUND

East Berlin, Reuter - Bomb disposal squads in East Germany last year collected and destroyed 4,300,000 rounds of small arms ammunition, nearly 600,000 grenades and shells, and 73,000 bombs - the remnants of the World War II.

Correct Address Important For Social Security

"The prompt delivery of social security checks to more than 25 million beneficiaries is one of the vital jobs of the Social Security Administration," Ray Ward, field representative of the Temple District Office said today.

Most delays are due to a change of address which was not reported to the social security office. "Some checks are returned even though a forwarding address was left at the post office because checks can not be forwarded for an indefinite time," Ward says.

The Social Security Administration uses the latest methods to insure the prompt delivery of benefit checks but some checks are lost or delayed every month. Any beneficiary whose check has not come by the sixth of the month should notify the office promptly by calling the Temple District Office.

A signed form may be required before any action can be taken. In the majority of cases if the check is returned because of an incorrect address it can be remailed within 10 to 14 days providing the social security office is notified of the correct address.

Iron For In-Outdoor Furniture

Wrought iron, used for some of the first outdoor furniture, is now mass-produced for use both inside and outside the home, reports Jane Berry, Extension housing and home furnishings specialist.

Wrought iron furniture, also called "all-weather" furniture, is often made with expanded metal mesh table tops, chair seats and backs, finished to match the frames. The mesh permits ventilation and inhances the comfort of seating and lounging pieces. Snap-on foam-filled cushions in a variety of vinyl patterns are also usually available for seating pieces.

When shopping for wrought iron furniture, check for smooth welds at joints and at points where decorations are fastened. Good quality wrought iron carries a guarantee against rust; a touch-up repair kit should also accompany the furniture.

The all - weather furniture comes in a variety of baked-on enamel finishes, ranging from pale colors to darker tones, such as bronze and black

Wrought iron furniture demands periodical care to preserve its original appearance. It should be hosed frequently or washed with warm water and a mild detergent, then rinsed. In salt-air areas, frames should be washed, rinsed and dried at least once a month to prevent corrosion.

For touch - up work, rub scratches or rust spots with steel wool and apply a metal primer coat. Use touch-up paint on chipped or scraped spots to seal breaks from rust. An annual coat of automobile paste wax helps preserve the color of the finish.

Tippit's Tips

A number of additions have been added and changes made in the Texas Uniform Vehicle Act.

One of the additions is Article V, Sec. 50A effective September 1, 1971. This adds a new offense Homicide by Vehicle which is punishable under the motor vehicle laws of this State.

It provides that whoever shall unlawfully and unintentionally cause a death of another person while engaged in the violation of any state law or municipal ordinance applying to the operation of a vehicle or streetcar or to the regulation of traffic shall be guilty of homicide when violation is the proximate cause of death.

Such person may be tried only upon indictment by a grand jury and may be tried only in the county where violation occurred.

The new law provides every needed safeguard to insure that a driver will not be prosecuted under this statute when the driver should be held blameless.

A successful prosecution requires proof that the driver was at the time of the accident engaged in the violation of a state law or municipal ordinance applying to the operation or use of a vehicle, and that that particular violation was the proximate cause of death.

A dead person may vote, legally, if he mails an absentee ballot and then dies before election day.

According to law, a minimum of three persons can create a riot.

Transplant Patient Never Feels Tired

By Nick Lamberto
Reuter Correspondent

STORY CITY, Iowa

Carlyle Townswick, 49, who has been equipped with a transplanted 30-year-old heart, says the only problem he has had since he received his new heart more than a year ago is getting to sleep.

"You never feel tired," he said in an interview.

"I have to force myself to go to bed. When you have this surgery the nerves from your heart to your brain are cut and they don't grow back together again.

"So your heart can't tell your brain when you're tired. After I take a couple of sleeping tablets I'll sleep for about four hours and then get up and drink coffee until its time to go to the golf links.

"I never get sleepy or feel tired."

"All transplants have the same problem. That's why they give us controlled tests to find out our exhaustion level," he said.

"If you pedalled a bicycle and started getting tired, your heart beat would accelerate and you enter the 'tired curve' and your pulse rate starts climbing," Townswick said.

"Ours would not start climbing but would go straight through the 'tired curve' to the death zone and we would be starving for oxygen and could easily kill ourselves. So we force ourself to rest and sleep."

Townswick had his failing heart replaced with one from a 30-year old anonymous accident victim during 6 1/2 hours of surgery at the Stanford University Medical Center in California on July 4, 1970.

Townswick, married with two children, a son and a daughter, says he does not want to know the name of his heart donor.

"I'm glad to have it and I'm not curious whose it was. It was a marvelous gesture on the part of the person's family. I think the person was an accident victim." Townswick said.

"The heart is just a muscle after all, and it's not the only one that does any work. I haven't tried to break the mile run record but I run up and down stair and play 18 holes of golf five days a week."

Townswick has a 20 inch scar running from just below his neck to his navel. He wears a Medical Alert bracelet at all times. Inscribed on the bracelet are the words "heart transplant Stanford University" and two emergency phone numbers.

His breastbone is held together with silver wires and once "when I swung too hard and took too much turf," Townswick said, "a couple of wires broke.

"So I slowed down my swing and keep it under control more. That's why I don't get the distance on my drives I used to."

Asked if he had any regrets about the transplant Townswick said, "If you were given two months to live, what would you do?"

"I live each day as it comes. I figure I'm going to outlive my 92-year-old uncle. It's just a new lease on life. I expect to be around a long time."

Bacteria Developed To Gobble Oil Slicks

Developing bacteria that can gobble up oil slicks is the focus of an important research project being conducted by a University of Texas scientist.

Dr. Carl Oppenheimer, director of UT's Institute of Marine Science at Port Aransas, is readying the first field test (in a 200 - acre pond near Corpus Christi) for his project which has already proved successful in laboratory tests.

Dr. Oppenheimer's lab tests have showed that once bacteria chew up the oil, they die, leaving end products which have no harmful effects on existing marine environment.

Colorado has the highest average altitude above sea level of any state.

Subject to Law
Surely the eagle best represents the ideal of Liberty. But the picture shows him to be under restriction. He has duties to perform, young to rear and a home to protect. Perhaps freedom is linked with responsibility.
From Alaska to the Gulf he ranges in freedom as monarch of the sky.
Yet, how subject is he to the natural laws of God. You never see birds very high in the sky. Most birds do not risk much of height above the tree tops. When exhausted they need a branch on which to perch. They fly awhile and then earth calls them down. How clearly the eagle speaks to us Americans. We are so free, yet so subject to God, so responsible to Him and ours. May we limit our own freedom, support His church and realize how subject we are to God.
You In The Church The Church In You
— form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.
